TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF PARTICIPATION

OVERVIEW

The PHYSICIAN CEO® program is administered by the Kellogg School of Management of Evanston, Illinois, in collaboration with SurgiVision® Consultants Inc. of Scottsdale, Arizona.

The PHYSICIAN CEO® program is designed to support physicians in their role as the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of their practice, venture, or foundation. Participation is limited to physicians holding an MD, DO, MBBS or equivalent degree. Emphasis is placed on private practice and private enterprise.

Participants must be board-certified or board-eligible in a recognized medical and/or surgical specialty, though admission is not limited to specific specialties. Indeed, diverse specialty representation is considered one of the strengths of the program. As such, participants may draw from ophthalmology, plastic surgery, dermatology, fertility, orthopedics, cardiology, bariatric surgery, pain medicine, family medicine, ENT, anesthesiology, and concierge medicine physicians, among others. Non-physician administrators, assistants, physician-assistants, residents, and other personnel are not eligible to participate.

Class size is limited to 35 participants per program. Applications to the PHYSICIAN CEO® program are accepted on a rolling basis and are reviewed upon submission until the program fills. Applications are reviewed carefully, and admission is based on the several factors, including the applicant's objectives and goals and the perceived potential for the PHYSICIAN CEO® program to impact the applicant's practice. Early application is encouraged.

Classes begin Sunday morning and run through approximately 3:00 PM on Wednesday.

Modules are scheduled approximately 10 weeks apart, starting in January, with certain adjustments to avoid coinciding with major holidays and professional meetings. Participants are required to attend all four Modules. Participation in selected modules is not permitted.

Digital participation over the Internet is not supported. The program is offered “live” on the Northwestern University campus in Evanston, Illinois.

PREPARATION AND GROUP ACTIVITIES

Participants will be provided with materials and assignments in advance of each Module. The quality of the participant’s experience depends on the degree to which the materials and assignments have been completed.

Participants will be assigned to study groups on arrival, in keeping with the teaching method of the Kellogg School of Management and other business schools. Groups are carefully structured to ensure a mix of backgrounds, specialties, experience, practice settings and business skills. Most participants report that the group structure is one of the most valued elements of the program and often leads to lifetime associations.

Groups are not competitive, they are collaborative in nature. The success of the group experience relies on the participant’s preparation and assimilation of the pre-assigned materials. More information regarding group organization and processes will be provided as part of the program.
